Position Summary:

This position will provide community outreach, program building, and research support to the Angel Oak Preserve and Community Lands teams at Lowcountry Land Trust. The intern will experience how a local nonprofit approaches relationship-building, park planning, and data analysis to advance its work.

Responsibilities:

- Supports staff in the development of conservation-based community programming and coordination of volunteer events at Charleston County's historic settlement communities and the future Angel Oak Preserve;
- Participates in staff meetings and community visioning sessions to gather, analyze, and interpret feedback that informs park planning, design, and programmatic decisions;
- Visits Lowcountry Land Trust's community conservation sites to document existing conditions and define opportunities, preparing summaries and reports to inform ongoing stewardship efforts; and
- Other tasks as assigned.

Qualifications:

- At least 18 years of age, with a strong interest in pursuing a career within conservation;
- Ideal candidates are entry-level, without significant professional experience;
- Experience using email, digital calendars, document editing, and cloud applications such as Google and Microsoft;
- Strong communication and interpersonal skills;
- Strong organizational skills; and
- Professional and customer service-oriented.

Compensation:

The Intern will have the opportunity to work up to 20 hours per week at a rate of $17/ hr.
